

CARPE DIEM

Translation: María Victoria Arbués Gállego

Enjoy every moment,
Gifts that the future places
At your feet, like ambrosia
And the sweet nectar for the everlasting
Joy of any god.

Don't take refuge, out of habit,
In the confusing labyrinths
Of lamentation and compassion.
Distrust the nonsensical
Appetite of the clock.

In your wardrobe awaits a suit
Full of new horizons
And emotions to discover.
A shooting star its millenary
Wake will detect
In that smiling gesture
That sometimes reflects your face.

See what intensity of light
The morning splendidly brings
So that, on the sand of the beach,
Your patent leather shoes dance,
Daring, flamenco and tap dancing.

Behold how peacefully your boat
Sail this full moon
Night on the gentle waves
Of such an imperturbable sea.
